

INTERCULTURAL AWARENESS TRAINING

FOR THE CANADIAN MINING INDUSTRY

What is Intercultural Awareness Training?

This training promotes intercultural competencies critical to our changing industry and considers strategies that will help attract, integrate and retain a more diverse workforce. Geared towards mining sector stakeholders, the training is available in two distinct formats:

- A full suite of five e-learning modules with tools for managers, superintendents and leaders to evaluate and enhance corporate policies and practices on inclusion and diversity.
- A condensed format of two e-learning module available to all mining employees and other stakeholders to reinforce the value of inclusiveness and diversity in the workplace.

What does the Training Include?

Online modules and key resources make up the Intercultural Awareness Training. Participants have the flexibility of going through each module at their own pace.

1 ONLINE LEARNING MODULES

Five modules, 60 minutes in total duration that provide participants with generic insights from the value of a diverse & inclusive workplace to talent acquisition and management suggestions.

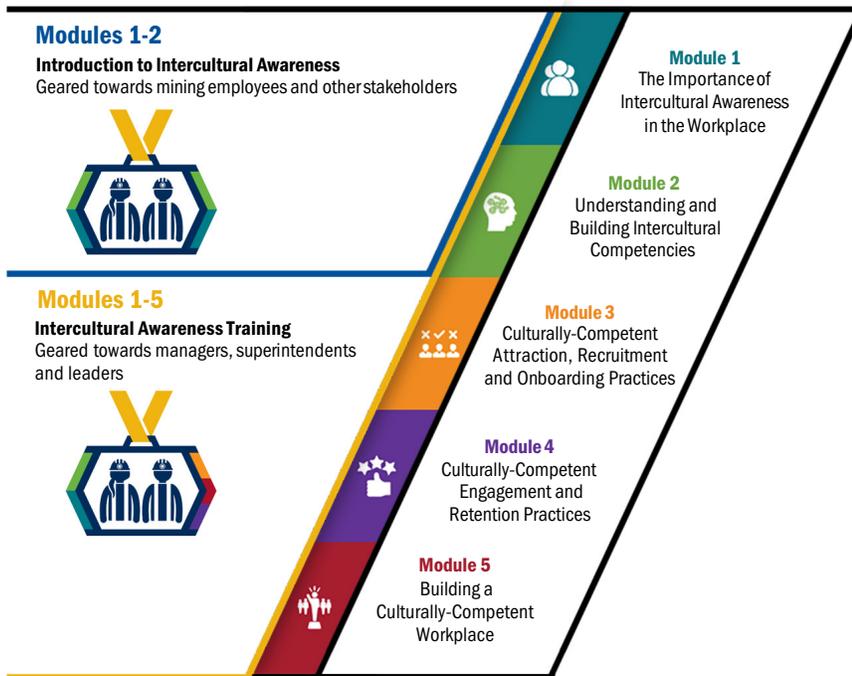

2 A TOOLBOX OF ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Resources and working tools (such as checklists and worksheets) available for participants to download as needed throughout the training.

 Optimizing mining's human resource supply
